Message from the Chairperson

While 2021 continued to be a difficult year for people around the world due to Covid-19, the IVL Foundation employed a multi-faceted approach to aid people in Thailand, India, Ghana and the USA through projects related to health, education and female empowerment.

As a relatively small foundation, we are highly flexible and have been able to switch our attention very quickly to the plight of those suffering due to the pandemic, while maintaining support for projects we have already committed to.

Thus, in 2021, we decided to invest 64% of our funding into helping people survive a critical period of economic uncertainty and hardship. This included funds for food for the unemployed, those living on the street or communities in low-income areas.

We simultaneously continued to assist unregistered refugee children to receive an education and during times when schools were locked down, allowing our funding to be used for emergency food and essentials. Everyone believes that education can help build a better future, thus we continue to support young people, especially in STEM fields, with teachers and scholarships that we hope will allow bright youngsters be less fettered by their financial condition.

We also continue to support projects that empower women to be self-reliable when they are forced by circumstances to stand on their own feet.

SUCHITRA LOHIA
Chairperson
